Farm book

We were guests at a reception marking the national independence of Ghana at the Embassy yesterday afternoon. Just before going there Herman K asked me if I'd mind taking some greens trimmings to his farm for the geese and pigs. As we put it in, Lil harrrumphed "garbage!". As we drove toward the Embassy she said she'd bet that would be the only Embassy in Washington with a fresh load of garbage parked outside it. Inside, among the guests was Mrs. Dean Rusk. I was surprised to observe a man unknown to me address here "Hey, beautiful!" and apparently knowing his voice, she turned in response. In any event, by the time we had spend two hours in the Embassy and in the 95 degree heat, with the windows in the care closed, by the time we got into it Lil's description od Garbage sm4lled correct.
